

Tom Keeley

I am a retired Sales Engineer. My wife, Betty, and I are originally from Philly. Nine years ago we relocated to Southern Delaware from Connecticut. We decided to move here for the same reasons that many other newcomers use in deciding where to retire. We are very happy here and our five children and fifteen grandchildren enjoy the area immensely.

For the first ten years of my working life I was a draftsman. After graduating from Drexel's evening program I became a project engineer and later a sales engineer.

I started dabbling with water colors almost 30 years ago. Most of my initial efforts were in the evenings in motel rooms while traveling on business. I am basically self taught but I have greatly expanded my knowledge of water color techniques by taking a number of very good courses here at the Millsboro Art League.

A couple of years ago I joined the Millsboro Art League with a couple of friends who also like to dabble in water colors. I do virtually all of my painting there on Thursdays. I continue with attempts to paint at home but a hectic retirement schedule defeats most of those efforts. But I keep promising myself that those efforts will soon be successful.

I have found the Millsboro Art League to be a friendly and congenial place filled with people that freely share and enjoy their artistic expertise and endeavors. I am also a member of the Ocean City Art League.
